About Our Highways

The Arkansas Highway Department yesterday handed a report to Governor McMath declaring the financial crisis has reached such a point that we may not be able to keep all of our trunk-line roads open to traffic.

The report consists of two statements:

1. It will take 49 million dollars to bring our national highway routes (61-64-65-67-70) up to U. S. Bureau of Public Roads standards — and 25 millions merely to rebuild the most critical sections.

2. Rebuilding primary roads other than the national routes would require 93 millions — and it will take 54 millions just to fix the most critical parts.

The two totals mentioned above come to a grand figure of 142 million dollars — and the report admits virtually none of this money is in sight.

Not even the 49 millions required to restore the national highways — and it is these which produce the major part of the gasoline tax revenue that supports our highway debt structure and maintenance work.

But this is a crisis that has been coming on for years. The highways were pounded down in the war years. There was much criticism of the Lane administration — whether deserved or not — for non-maintenance which let water get under the concrete slab. And post-ponement of the crisis by resorting to inadequate measures has continued into the McMath administration.

This newspaper charged that the 28-million-dollar additional bond issue which Governor McMath put through in a special election immediately after he took office was a nightmare of inadequacy and would increase the public debt without doing the job that had to be done for the revenue-producing highways. A desperate people, however, voted for that bond issue — and now the crisis is upon us.

No public road will actually be closed, of course. But it may be necessary to bar from Arkansas all transcontinental heavy trucks so local traffic can be maintained. This would mean an additional financial disaster, since the trucks do contribute some highway revenue.

The fact is the big trucks don't pay enough. I'm writing strictly from memory, but what I recall is that in the last session of the legislature nothing was done to raise more highway money from the big truck lines — although Arkansas charge against them was lower than many other states.

I don't intend this as a persecution of the big trucks. As an owner of machinery myself I know that the big truck lines have a vital interest in highways — without a good road to run on they are out of business. The cost of getting a good road is whatever it may be. There is no other choice.

Arkansas is an agricultural state whose resources can't possibly build and maintain heavy-duty roads unless the big truck lines pay a substantial share of the cost.

Highway revenues must be increased, for on this annual "take" depends our ability to borrow and pay interest on the money required to put the Arkansas highway system in good shape.

These are the facts. We've known them for a long time. The crisis we have been postponing has finally arrived and don't tell me you're surprised... because you aren't.

Southwestern to Furnish SPG Industries

Hope City Council last night authorized Mayor Lyle Brown and Clerk Charles Reynerson to execute a contract between the Southwestern Gas and Electric Co. and the city to furnish electricity to the industrial area of the Proving Ground.

This is a five-year contract under which the city will purchase electricity from Southwestern, delivered at the Proving Ground, for resale for residential, commercial and industrial purposes.

Plaswood, Inc., an industrial plant at the Proving Ground, is scheduled to start production December 1, and has requested 650 horsepower — more than the city could furnish.

In order to furnish this much power Southwestern will have to rework 19 miles of its line installing new lines and transformers from Okay. To get Southwestern to do this the city gave the electrical company a 5-year contract to furnish all power needed at the SPG industrial site.

In other business heavy users of electricity on rural lines asked the council for better rates. They included Norman Jones, speaking in behalf of Spring Hill schools, and Glen Campbell of Hope II.

A petition to close an alley in Block 2, Brown's addition was presented. A public hearing was ordered for December 19.

An ordinance requiring that premises where animals and fowls are kept be maintained in satisfactory condition and to prohibit use or maintenance of open toilets within 300 feet of a public sewer line was read for the second time.

The council voted not to make any exception on the installation of parking meters.

Some Arkansas Highways May Be Closed

Little Rock, Nov. 22 (AP) — The Arkansas Highway department has estimated that more than $142,000,000 would be needed to bring Arkansas primary road system up to modern standards.

In a report to Governor McMath the department said that $49,101,750 would be required to bring the interstate system (parts of highways 61, 64, 65, 67, and 70) up to standards approved by the bureau of public roads.

It added that an additional $93,165,000 would be necessary to rebuild other primary roads so they would meet modern requirements.

The report said that for the interstate system $25,103,000 would be required just to reconstruct the critical section of the roads involved. And $54,209,000 was reported necessary to reconstruct critical sections and pave gaps in other roads in the primary network.

The department reported that an increase of one cent per gallon in the state gasoline tax would amount to $3,000,000 a year and that a two-cent increase would supply about the same amount of money that is being derived by the current bond construction program of $7,000,000 annually, provided the entire proceeds went to highway department.

The report recommended that if funds can be found the interstate system be rebuilt to federal standards and that highway 67 from Little Rock to the Missouri line and highway 22 from Dardanelle to Fort Smith be reconstructed.

This would take care of the roads that carry the heaviest traffic and are in the most critical condition, the report said.

Revenue Department Budget Under Consideration

Little Rock, Nov. 22 The Arkansas Legislative council met today to resume consideration of a $1,427,500 budget submitted by the state revenue department.

When the council recessed late yesterday it had considered about half the budget item by item and had made no changes.

State Senator Jerry Screenshot of Hazen, often a critic of Governor McMath's administration, suggested that the new budget — the total is a reduction of some $200,000 from the current one — be approved immediately.

Screenshot, along with several other council members, also objected to the proposed $7,500 yearly salary which has been paid Revenue Commissioner Dean Morley.

The commissioner's salary was not changed, but the council decided to consider all items in the budget.

U. S., Britain at Odds Over China Probe

Lake Success, Nov. 22 (AP) — Britain and the United States lined up in opposite camps again today on the question of investigating Nationalist China's charges of Russian aggression.

The U. N. assembly's 60-nation political committee, resuming debate on the issue may decide it before the day is over.

Nationalist China's T. F. Tsing presented his case yesterday. He charged that the Kremlin not only engineered the Chinese civil war, but now has 45,000 agents in China controlling all political, economic and cultural life.

Tsing proposed that the U. N. set up a fact-finding commission to look into the situation and report back to the assembly next fall. His plan found little support except from the United States, which agreed the problem should be studied by some sort of commission.

Russia demanded that the entire question be thrown out as unfair for discussion. Soviet Delegate Jacob A. Malik said Nationalist China already is headed for the "historic scrap heap."

Britain agreed that it would be useless to inquire into what happened in China. British Delegate J. E. Coulson said the facts are not really in dispute and added: "Our opinions won't be changed."

Britain is one of the 17 U. N. members which have recognized Red China. For this reason, she frequently finds herself at odds with the United States on Chinese problems.

"Anything that embitters the Far Eastern situation cannot do anything but harm," Coulson said. Paris El Khoury of Syria also expressed the belief it would be useless to create a fact-finding commission. He suggested instead that the question either be sent to the little assembly for study another year or be referred to the international court of justice at The Hague.

Gove Escapes But Recaptured at Russellville

Officers at Russellville today recaptured two convicts who escaped yesterday from the Arkansas prison farm at Cummins. They are Roland E. Gove, alias Floyd Withersell, 20, of Haverhill, Mass., serving a life sentence and Ralph Murphy, 20, Russellville, serving a 4-year sentence for burglary.

Gove was sentenced in Hempstead for the murder of Matthew Runnels of Sheppard. The convicts were driving a new 1950 Nash stolen at Star City at the time of their arrest, State Police here said.

Car Wheel Locks, Hits Building; Child Is Hurt

An automobile driven by Mrs. J. D. Chessir, 608 Johnson St., went out of control at the Third and Walnut Street stop sign about 4 p.m. yesterday and crashed into a building occupied by the Nunn-McDowell Motor Co.

Mrs. Chessir was not seriously hurt but her young daughter suffered severe cuts about the mouth. Investigating officers said the steering gear locked when Mrs. Chessir applied the brake approaching the stop sign and the car veered to the right and hit the building, breaking a large plate glass window.

21, Including 8 Children Feared Lost in Crash

Moran, Wyo., Nov. 22 (AP) — A missionary plane with 21 aboard — eight of them children — apparently crashed and burned last night in swirling clouds on snowy Mount Moran. Rescue units headed for the scene.

Grand Teton National park officials were sure climbers making their tortuous way up the 12,100-foot peak would find wreckage of the plane. They held only slim hope there could be survivors.

A resort owner said he saw a burning fuselage in the flames far above timberline on the precipitous east face of the mountain. When the fire subsided, he could see nothing resembling a campfire.

The missing plane was bound from Chico, Calif., to Billings, Mont. Owned by the New Tribes Mission, a religious organization, it was on the first leg of a flight to South America.

Passengers included two young mothers with their children, widowed in the crash of another mission-owned plane in Venezuela last June which killed 15. Also aboard was Dr. Paul W. Flemings of Chico, mission director.

The new, twin-engine DC-3 last reported by radio over Idaho Falls, Idaho, at 3:48 p.m. MST. That was 50 miles west of here. The plane was due at Billings at 6:30 p.m.

It was about that time that residents of his picturesque area 25 miles south of Yellowstone Park heard a plane overhead. It was far off, usual air lanes. And it was flying west, just opposite the direction the California plane should have been headed. There was speculation it was lost and hunting land marks.

Half an hour later, acting Teton Park Superintendent Paul A. Judge said a fire was reported about 1,000 feet from the top of Mount Moran.

"There were no mountain climbers out," Judge said. "We assumed it could be nothing but a plane wreck."

Clarence Harris, an owner of Signal mountain lodge, eight miles across Jackson lake from the mountain, took out a pair of powerful field glasses.

"I saw what looked like a burning fuselage way up there in the snow," he said. "I don't think anybody could be alive."

In Los Angeles, a Mission official, Irving Samuelson, said the plane had been flown only a few hours. He said it was thoroughly checked before it left. The pilots were experienced, he added.

Crew members included Pilot Cy Lowery, Co-pilot Jack Dennis, and Bob Crammer, former B-17 pilot.

Yank Fliers Would Like to Pursue the Bandit Enemy to His Lair and Destroy Him

By HAL BOYLE E

With U. S. naval forces in the Far East (AP) — There is a road leading from home to war — and a road leading back from war to home again.

It is the same road, and if you are a real combat man there are regrets along the way no matter which direction you are traveling. That is an odd truth about real men at war.

Coming over to the Korean war, the chief regret of Naval Lt. Charles J. Deasy of Cincinnati, was that he had to leave his bride of three months—Louis.

Now Deasy, at 26, one of the most experienced jet pilots in the navy, is going home after flying more than 50 combat missions here in his second war. But happy he is to rejoin his bride he has a big regret too.

"It's fine to be going home," he thoughtfully, "but I'd like to get a Russian jet MIG-15 before I leave. My interest in the war revived as soon as we began to meet some air opposition."

Deasy became a navy aviation pilot at the age of 18. Eight years later he is a veteran of two wars. As a pioneer navy test pilot in the cold peace that followed the last war, Deasy helped check the capability of some seven of the 15 jet type aircraft developed by the United States.

He also has twice participated in the first historic battles of Russian jet against American jet in the Korean skies near the Manchurian border. His views are shared by most fliers I have talked to who have taken part in these fights.

Deasy feels that the sweet-back wing Russian-built MIG-15 is better from a performance level in almost every way than any American jet used in the Korean theater — the army F80s and the navy F9Fs.

"It can climb faster, has a faster level speed, and can turn quicker," he said frankly. "It has about twice the all-around performance of anything we have out here."

German Vote May Decide Rearing Plan

Frankfurt, Germany, Nov. 22 (AP) — The biggest state in the American zone of Germany votes next Sunday in an election that could decide the fate of American plans to rear Western Europe in the near future.

The voters of Bavaria elect a new state parliament. The results may determine whether Western Germany will take in the defense of Europe against Russia.

Two large German states gave a ringing "no" to rearmament in similar elections last Sunday. Allied officials said victories by anti-rearmament Socialists in Hesse and Wuertemberg-Baden spurred their nationwide drive to keep Germans from holding their own.

West Germans in the Western defense setup were weakened. The result of the Bavarian election — where rearmament is also the big political issue — may turn the tide either for or against the creation of a new German army, these officials said.

Allied military officials agree that Western Europe cannot be effectively defended without the full participation of both France and Western Germany.

The Atlantic powers now are considering how German armed units could be integrated into a unified Western defense force.

If the pro-rearmament Christian Democrats win or hold their own in Bavaria, there will be a good chance that the federal government will be reformed.

Man's Donation Helped to Save His Life

Easton, Md. Nov. 22 (AP) — "Sure, you never know when you might need the ambulance yourself," said Jim Sewell, 50, who cheerfully contributed early last week to a campaign for funds to maintain an ambulance in this eastern shore area.

Last Friday the ambulance had a passenger — Jim Sewell. A ten-year-old son, who had been playing in a corn picker and lost his right arm and leg.

There wasn't much hope then that he would live. But the ambulance crew applied tourniquets on the way to the hospital and made it there faster than ever.

Neighbors besieged the hospital with offers of blood Monday. A brigade led by farm bureau members swarmed over Sewell's 150-acre place to finish the corn picking and plowing and see if there was anything else they could do for his wife and five children.

Today doctors at Easton hospital said Sewell had stopped bleeding and seemed unbelievably strong. They expect him to recover.

Flood Eases, Two Points Face Danger

By The Associated Press

Two north central California areas today faced new threats from avalanches of muddy, debris-filled flood waters that had begun a general recession elsewhere in California and Nevada.

The floods have caused at least nine deaths and more than $20,000,000 damage in three days. Army engineers warned residents along the Sacramento river between Sacramento, Calif., and its mouth to watch for possible levee breaks as the crest of the combined Sacramento and American rivers surges downstream. The engineers ordered 150 men to patrol levees near Sacramento. Crews worked on levees weakened by nine days of rain.

The Sacramento river flow reached 100,000 second feet, greatest volume since 1907. A second foot is a flow of one cubic foot per second.

The second danger area was near Modesto, where runoff waters from the Don Pedro dam are expected to invade lowlands and residential areas today. The dam filled yesterday with 26,000 cubic feet of water, a second are still flowing into it.

General relief seemed to be at hand, however. The U. S. weather bureau in San Francisco reported "the excessive rainstorm... is ended." The bureau predicted generally fair weather over northern and central California today.

Reno faced a tremendous cleanup job. The waters of the rampaging Truckee river are once again retrained by their banks after a 12-hour flood termed "the worst in Reno's history" by the city.

Most of the $2,000,000 in property loss estimated by the Reno Chamber of Commerce was suffered in damaged hotels, stores and merchandise. Mud and water filled many basements containing stocks of Christmas goods.

California damage was estimated at $16,000,000 to $20,000,000 by the army engineers. In the soggy central valley, officials prepared to undertake the tremendous task of rebuilding and rehabilitation.

The state department of public health rushed typhoid vaccine to Sutter, Yuba and Tulare county health officers to combat drinking water troubles.

The Red Cross, busy providing food, clothing, blankets and housing for refugees, registered flood victims as a preliminary step to the huge rehabilitation job.

Waves of U. S. Superforts Hit Communist Bases

Seoul, Nov. 22 (AP) — U. S. Superforts blasted Communist bases in northeast Korea today. Infantry patrols probed the entire front to find where the Reds plan to make a stand.

Waves of Superforts rained 5,000 pounds of high explosive on Musan border area while others struck the port of Chongjin, 100 miles to the southeast. It was the second strike in a week.

North Koreans are reported organizing and Chinese Red Army troops are marching toward the Musan border.

Musan is a major supply base for the North Koreans. U. S. vision troops raised the U. N. flag and white flag Tuesday on the river opposite Red Manchuria.

General MacArthur's war mummy in Tokyo reported "United Nations forces continue to advance generally along the Korean battle front" (Tuesday).

Here's the way the front looks from east to west:

East coast — Eight miles from the U. S. cruiser St. Paul passed the North Korean border (ROK) Capital division burning retreating disorganized enemy toward Siberia.

South Koreans were eight miles south of Chongjin, port city of the North. Border was Red's apparently very strong. Make a stand. B-29s bombed in after marine airman heavy anti-aircraft fire there.

Manchurian border — Seventh division's 17th regimental team dug in around Hyesan reported no sign of enemy on either side of the 100-year Yalu river which divides from Red China's Manchuria.

Other Seventh division's 15th regimental team dug in around Hyesan reported no sign of enemy on either side of the 100-year Yalu river which divides from Red China's Manchuria.

One road that maps said Samsu ended abruptly seven miles in the mountains from the Americans tried another way. A landslide.

"We will keep pushing until we have the area cleaned out," headquarters spokesman said. "Central mountains — First division marines seeking to reach Changlin reservoir, ran into small arms fire near Samsu, miles up the east side of reservoir. Red concentration reported nearby."

Northwestern front — The Eighth division occupied Yalu and with other divisions of the Second corps established running five to six miles north of Tokchon. Chinese Commun

Natural Gas
Prices May Go Skyward

Washington, Nov. 22 — Still increases in consumer prices for natural gas were foreseen today by an industry spokesman as one result of the proposed excess profits tax.

The higher prices prediction was made to the house ways and means committee by William C. Woolfolk, chairman of the American Natural Gas company.

Woolfolk was one of a group of witnesses called on this final day of committee hearings on President Truman's request for a 75 percent tax on excess corporation profits tax to raise $4,000,000,000 yearly in new revenue.

Like other business spokesmen, Woolfolk opposed the President's request, which so far has found major support only from organized labor and the treasury department.

Woolfolk's company supplies gas to an estimated 4,000,000 consumers in Detroit, Milwaukee and other Michigan and Wisconsin cities through the Michigan Consolidated Gas company, the Milwaukee Gas Light company and the Michigan Wisconsin Pipeline company.

Even under most favorable conditions, he said in a statement for the committee, the excess profits ment which they dominate can ram rearmament through the national parliament at Bonn once the question of German aid is settled by the West.

But if the anti-rearmament Socialists win or even make sizeable gains in Bavaria — then the tax proposal would increase the tax rate on the normal regulated earnings of his company from 45 percent to 63 percent.

"In this event our system would have to apply for increases of about $10,000,000 or 20 percent, in its charge to the public for utility service to bring its earnings up to a normal return," he said.

"If our earnings, regulated by law, are reduced, we cannot raise new money, construction must stop and gas must be rationed," he added.

Other witnesses today represented various other utilities and agreed generally that an excess profits tax would be discriminatory, inflationary and difficult to administer.

Committee Chairman Doughton (D-NC) told newsmen he plans to recall the committee into closed session Friday and to work daily thereafter, Sunday excluded, until an actual bill is drafted. Some members, however, are insisting that the committee recess until next Monday. It started its hearings last Wednesday.

The committee timetable calls for having a bill ready for presentation to the house around Dec. 1.

Murfreesboro
Fire Fatal
to 4 Persons

Murfreesboro, Nov. 22 — (AP) — Fire, apparently started by a kerosene stove explosion, killed four Negro children here yesterday. The four sons of Joe Landerson and his wife, were Wallace, four years old, Guy Raymond, two; Phillip, 15 months, and Jace, three months.

The father was at work and the mother at the home of a neighbor when the rapid-spreading fire was discovered at the Landerson dwelling. An older child, a daughter, was at school. Two of the children were dead when firemen reached them. The other two died later at a physician's office. The fire destroyed the Landerson house and two others before it was extinguished.

ORANGE flavored
NO. 1 HEALTH FLAVOR

This wonderful children's aspirin is easy to give—so easy to take. It's the only aspirin that's so easy to take. It's the only aspirin that's so easy to take. It's the only aspirin that's so easy to take.

Mrs. Flavia C. Kaufman, 2438 70th Ave., Baton Rouge, Louisiana, says it is a full time job keeping tabs on her little grand-daughter, Mildred Gore, but it is a job she thoroughly enjoys. Yes, everything in life for her these days is enjoyable — because she has at last found her secret of feeling better. She now takes HADACOL regularly because she was suffering from deficiency of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin, and Iron.

Here is Mrs. Kaufman's statement: "I have been taking HADACOL for over a year. Before I started taking HADACOL I was terrible nervous and upset all the time. I was underweight and just couldn't eat at all. My appetite was so lax that I ate irregularly at all hours of the day. Then I started taking HADACOL. After the third bottle I felt 100% better. I have gained weight, my appetite is tremendous and, best of all, I sleep well nights and my nerves are steady as can be. HADACOL is a very wonderful product. I just can't praise HADACOL enough."

HADACOL is that wonderful new preparation — promising blessed relief for your indigestion, stomach disturbances (gas, heartburn, sour "risings" after meals), as well as that general run-down condition, and nagging aches and pains, if due to a lack of Vitamins B1, B2, Iron and Niacin in your system.

HADACOL is so amazingly successful because if your system lacks Vitamins B1, B2, Iron and Niacin it acts directly to relieve this deficiency — the real cause of your trouble. That's the kind of product you want — the kind you should buy — the kind you should start taking immediately.

Only One Genuine HADACOL. Don't go through life suffering those nagging aches and pains if caused by such deficiencies when relief may be as close at hand as the nearest drugstore for sufferers from these deficiencies. Buy HADACOL today. Trial size bottle only $1.25. Large family or hospital size, $3.50. Refuse substitutes. There's only one true and genuine HADACOL. If your drugstore does not have HADACOL, order it direct from The LeBlanc Corporation, Lafayette, Louisiana.

Student Is Apparently Lucky This Time

Fort Meade, Md., Nov. 22 — (AP) — Henderson Dorsey must have had a lulu when the sergeant asked, "Are there any questions?" The sergeant was giving some new recruits a lecture on army life yesterday.

Dorsey, a 17-year-old Baltimorean, got mixed up with the recruits at Fort Holabird. He had overslept at that nearby reception center while on an overnight tour with some other high school students, and asked the military police to help him.

They did — by putting him on a bus. Also on the bus was a batch of new draftees, headed for Fort Meade.

When they arrived and the sergeant went into his spiel, Dorsey spoke up. It was all a mistake and he shouldn't be there.

This, the sergeant decided, was something for channels. It took a major's confirmation, but the sergeant became convinced and today Dorsey is still a civilian.

"As the Twig is Bent." The meeting was closed with the prayer of the PTA by Mrs. Albert Graves.

Fire Guts City Block in Town of Parkin

Parkin, Nov. 22 (AP) Fire gutted nearly a block of the Parkin business district here yesterday.

It apparently started from an oil stove explosion.

Unofficial estimates of the damage ranged up to $500,000.

No one was injured.

The explosion occurred in a tank on the oil stove at the Oklahoma Tire and Supply company store, Mayor H. H. Melhorn said.

Mayor Melhorn's Insurance agency office was one of the places burned. It also was the office of his son, Sterling G. Melhorn, publisher of the weekly newspaper, the Cross County Times. The Times is printed at Wynne, but 17 years of the newspaper files were lost.

Besides the tire and supply company, other businesses burned included a beauty shop, a cleaning establishment, a small cafe, the Parkin office of the Arkansas Power and light company, the Ritz theater, a barber shop and Bogard's department store.

Firemen from Parkin, Earle and Wynne fought the fire.

Slaying Charge Dropped Now Faces Another

Van Buren, Nov. 22 — (AP) — Cleared of a possible connection with a slaying, a man arrested here has been turned over to federal authorities to face a charge of violating the "white slave" act.

Police Chief Voll Russell said he'd found nothing to justify further investigation of Harry Alvin Chancellor, 37, in the fatal shooting of Ray Roberts, Memphis clothing salesman, in Crittenden county, Ark., several months ago.

Chancellor waived a U.S. commissioner's hearing at Fort Smith and was held for action of the federal grand jury. He was unable to furnish $2,000 bond and was jailed at Fort Smith.

It would be easy to let the breath-taking power, the luxurious ride and the gleaming good looks of a Buick sweep you off your feet.

And once you've sampled the sweet response of Dynaflo Drive*—you feel a big lack in anything else.

But let's be practical about all this.

What does it cost to buy—and to own—this star performer?

The first answer is a look at delivered prices—and most people still are surprised to find that a car which offers so much actually costs so little.

That's true, whether you put the SPECIAL, the SUPER or the superb ROADMASTER against other cars of comparable dimensions. They certainly shine on a first-cost basis.

But this is only half the story, as you'll soon find out on any used-car lot.

Year in, year out, the resale prices of Buicks stay much closer to first cost than the prices of cars with lesser merit.

And among recent models, Buicks with Dynaflo Drive command such a premium that you can almost figure you get this dream drive for free.

So why not let yourself go? Why not walk right into your Buick dealer's now and say, put me down for one of those!

There's no time like the present for showing your good judgment.

13 Lucky Guys

Even at best all you could make out was Eddie's face and one arm. His mouth was twisted to the side as if he was having pains in his stomach or something.

"I got hit," Eddie explained. "They took me to the emergency. Suddenly his expression changed. 'What are you men doing here? Get back to your stations!' he ordered."

Just as he spoke there was a swift, bright glow that expanded all around him for a moment and then faded to a distant, muffled glow. Then the air of light contracted and disappeared.

Eddie was still there. All of him was. The pain was gone from his face and he was grinning.

Eddie him stood an Army medical officer—a captain. He was half a head shorter than Eddie and around 50 years old. He had a nice face—kind and friendly, but slightly tired.

The captain spoke. "That last night you got us. The house always by around looking for dressing stations and hospitals." Then he smiled at Eddie. "You're lucky, young fella—it was pretty painful business picking that bomb spin out of your belly. And even if I had plenty of time and help I don't believe you'd have lived anyway."

"You mean," said Eddie slowly, "that I'm dead?"

"You and me both. Dead's a word I speak." The officer slapped Eddie across the seat of the pants with the flat of his hand—a friendly slap. "You're all right now. Honorably discharged." He chuckled. "None of that duration and six months to look forward to. So long."

"Wait a minute, doc," Eddie pleaded in a sudden panic. "I don't need you."

"Never no more, son. But if you could think you do I'll be at the hospital over in town."

"Where's that? What town?"

"Westwaygo. It's your own town. You know where the hospital is, don't you? I'm on the way—was before the war. I'll be back to go back and see how things are just the way some groups. Across the board curtailment of civilian production without regard to military or civilian needs. Credit restrictions which impose "inequitable burdens" on low income groups.

The resolution, though not yet acted upon, was certain of adoption. It declared: "Only a well-planned, coordinated program will assure full development of the nation's productive resources and their maximum utilization in meeting the nation's military and essential civilian requirements."

The resolution charged that an "orgy of profiteering" by corporations has increased the need of you'll want to find out what's going on at the place you used to work, wherever that was. That's how we happened to land here when we were blown up. It's where we all wanted to be."

"No, sir," persisted Joe doggedly. "There ain't any reason why I should have landed here no matter how high I got blown up."

"Yes there is," argued Jake Snyder. "Don't you remember? Just before it happened we was talking about Lakeview Beach being heaven and you said, 'That I would have to see.' Well, you wanted to see it and here you are."

"One thing bothers me, captain," Eddie said. "What are all those buildings to the north of us where the sheds of the Westwaygo Boat Company used to be?"

"That's still the 'boatworks' as everybody in town calls it," the captain explained. "They expanded it to make small craft for the Navy. I think that happened after the National Guard outfits were mustered in. I didn't leave till considerably later. They used to build PT boats—turned out one every hour on the hour. I believe they're making landing barges now. Lots of people working there—some of your old friends, I expect. You must look through it while you're here."

"Would they let us?" asked Jake. "I don't think anybody could stop you." The captain laughed. "So long, boys."

THE medical officer's chuckle still hung in the air after he had vanished. It didn't seem so very strange that he should disappear that way. It must be that they were getting used to the idea of existence on a trick basis.

Then, from the road which was parallel to the shore came an excited shepherd dog. He ran right up to the group of men, barking all the way, but just a few feet away he stopped and growled uncertainly.

"Look, Carlo," said Eddie, "that's my dog, Duke."

"Darned if it ain't." "Come here, Duke."

The dog, half-frightened but obedient, crawled to Eddie. "It's all right, fella. It's me—Eddie."
